

ABSTRACT

This invention provides a novel polymeric compound having excellent gas permeability, oil resistance, stability, and molding processability and a method for producing the same. The novel polymeric compound is a cyclic carbonate-containing polymeric compound represented by formula (I).

